External sharing Add-on for Alfresco

Key Features

- Unique access links

- Share to multiple users

- Configurable expiry dates

- Customizable e-mail notifications

- Easy upload and download

- Dedicated external UI

- Built-in Previewer

- Auditable actions

Share your content with external users, easily and securely. Collaboration has never been this efficient.

ShareBox for Alfresco allows internally hosted content to be safely shared with external users, as well as letting them upload content, easily and efficiently. There's not even any need to create an account and sign in; it's all handled with unique e-mail tokens. ShareBox features the highest industry standard in security practices, so you can share and collaborate with peace of mind. Perhaps you need an easy way to share contracts during negotiations, distribute software to your clients, or maybe you're remodelling the office and need to send the floor plans to the architects. Either way, ShareBox is perfect for you.

The Power Of Sharebox

No more convoluted sharing solutions every time your need to work with outsiders. No more risking security breaches for your critical data. With Share-Box, your workflow will be more efficient than ever. Allow us to explain how it works.

Efficient And Secure

With ShareBox installed, you can click on any folder hosted on your Alfresco server and select it for external sharing. There are a variety of settings available to perfectly suit your needs:

- Decide whether external users can upload content
- Set expiry date on sharing
- Write a custom message
- Enter one or more recipient e-mail addresses

Once the folder is shared, the external users receive an e-mail containing a personal access link. There's no need to worry about unauthorized sharing; once the link is opened it becomes exclusively tied to that computer and browser and cannot be opened anywhere else. You can change the sharing settings at any time, as well as completely cancel it, immediately revoking access from external users.

User-Friendly Interface

On activating the link, external users directly access a dedicated interface that is elegant, informative and easy to use regardless of previous experience. The interface is mobile-friendly and displays thumbnails of all content. It also allows you to add corporate identity via configuration.

Through the interface, users can view all content, as well as download either individual files, or complete folders in the form of ZIP-files. If the internal user has allowed it, they will also be able to upload their own content. Everyone with access to the folder will be notified of any new content at a customizable interval.

Stay In Control

All actions taken in ShareBox are completely auditable. Internal users will see a banner next to content by external users, showing when and by who it was uploaded.

Administrators can set a limit on the depth of sub-folders that can be shared, which prevents accidental over-sharing. Certain content types or documents can be set to never appear in any ShareBox folder.

Service And Support

As with every software purchase, you'll probably need some assistance and support to get you started. If you need help that you cannot find in our detailed installation guide, we will gladly walk you through how ShareBox will fit in your network infrastructure, and help you choose the best settings for your organizational needs.

With your purchase of ShareBox comes regular updates, expeditious fixes for any issues you report, and all new features as we add them based on customer feedback.

If you're still in doubt that ShareBox is right for you, we can set up a trial on our Showcase server, or even let you do an on-premise trial before finalizing your purchase.

ShareBox is available for both Alfresco Enterprise and Community Editions and supports the latest version of Alfresco One.
